6

7 WHEREAS, the operations of state governments and the roles of elected officials are 8 often little understood by citizens. Yet public understanding of the institutions and 9 processes of government is critical to building public trust and confidence. State 10 governments need to bring about a better understanding of the concepts of 11 representative democracy; and

12

13 WHEREAS, a growing number of states have created or supported the creation of state 14 public affairs television networks whose charge it is to offer unfiltered, gavel-to-gavel 15 coverage of legislative sessions, committee proceedings and similar actions within the 16 executive and judicial branches. By providing an “open window” on the workings of 17 their state governments, these independent networks have increased citizen access, 18 public trust and understanding of both the governmental and the public policy process at 19 large; and

20

21 WHEREAS, the National Association of Public Affairs Networks (NAPAN) has been 22 conceived to help establish and expand nationally such noncommercial, independent 23 television networks devoted to providing citizens with fair, balanced, and unfiltered
24 access to their state governments: to foster and nurture the institutions that will help 25 create the informed electorate that will shape our democracy in the years to come.
26 NAPAN is committed to the launch and viability of networks in all 50 states.

27

28 NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, the National Conference of State Legislatures
29 supports and encourages the efforts of the National Association of Public Affairs

30 Networks in its vision for the formation and expansion of a state public affairs network in 31 each of the 50 states in the manner most appropriate for each individual state.
